Medical Time-Out

With my deepest apologies to everyone who is waiting for me to produce various lessons, stories, and training, I am in the middle of a medical situation, and am going to be absolutely unavailable until at least next Monday (June 22).

I may need to be offline longer than that.

Dan is covering the help desk for me until I can get back.

This is unlikely to be time where I'll be getting any productive work done, so everything just got delayed.

I'll update you when I am once again online.
