

A Peace Protester's Tale

By Holly Lisle

The story of one man who went to Baghdad to be a human shield.

The people he describes are the people that the Democratic party now wants us to abandon, for "budgetary" reasons. If we walk away now, we consign them to a new hell, either with a new dictator, the return of the old one, or some religious fundamentalist state. Staying will be hard. But the right thing to do is never the easy thing.
