Got most of the rest of the edits on Hunting the Corrigan's Blood done today. I should be able to have the book available in the next day or two.

In other news, got the revision requests for Hawkspar from Anna. They're significant. So I'll be working my way through them over the next few weeks. I'll print off a copy of the manuscript tomorrow and start digging in. Anna made smart observations—fixing the problems she found is still going to be a lot of work.

It was a good work day, though. Am also working on one of my worldbuilder's worlds. Fascinating stuff.
