

Another “recommend” from my research list

By Holly Lisle

Linda Howard’s Now You See Her – very well done; this one much more a traditional romance, and thus less likely to appeal to men, but it did a great job of blending psychic and suspense elements, and the ending was ... er ... killer.

What this means, by the way, is that Sheila Viehl has really good taste in the books she recommends, since she’s the one who shipped them over. Every one so far has been great. I now have two Iris Johansens – not sure which of the two will be my next read. But I haven’t had this much fun tearing through a pile of books in ages.
