Not sure if I'm quite ready to start writing again yet, but I think I am. Reformatted my hard drive again today, got most of my software and hardware working, including the modem. Which means I can once again post as I work.

I truly loathe computers sometimes, though. What a nuisance to have to go through all of this just to get the damned thing up and running the way I want it. Still can't get the pen tablet to work.
