The blogroll is going to get an update as soon as I finish NIGHT ECHOES. Categories will tie into world and language building from either the Korre universe or the Moon and Sun universe, and I'll be adding some new weblogs. (I'm finally getting back to reading the ones already there, after months of being deluged and not reading them).

And I'll be looking at streamlining the site, too, and coming up with a redesign.

I'm currently thumping my head about the revision on NIGHT ECHOES, trying to figure out a particularly frustrating screw-up I missed the first time through, which is why I'm here. Going again, though.
