

Comments should be working

By Holly Lisle

Still a certain amount of glitchiness as everything comes online. My email is working again and I can do support, so the e-book store is open. I'm going to do an install of the new version of CaRP, so the weblog should start showing up on the front page again for those of you who check in there.

If you have problems with anything and your regular e-mails aren't working, email me at hollylisle AT gmail DOT com.
