

Doing Crits for Katrina Victims

I'll be doing a manuscript crit to help raise money for Larissa Ione, whose family lost everything in the hurricane. If you can help out, please head over to Alison Kent's site and volunteer. Or bid.

I also need to hear from FrankA and/or his wife, who are from New Orleans, and who got out of the way of the storm with their lives. Latest news I've heard from them is that they think they still have a home. They don't know because they can't get back to find out.

However, if the storm destroyed their home, we'll be doing something similar for them here. Again, if you have a skill you can offer, please volunteer here. Comments on this post will remain open until we've got this nailed down.
