

Forgot to Figure Revision

Did the math, but forgot to figure revision.

If I scrap the one day per week I'd built in as my buffer and use those for revision instead, I can still write Bad Moon Rising at a relatively sane 2400 words per day, and have 13 days for revision before I ship it off to Claire. If I do the revision as a one-pass, and stick close to my current ideas for the book, I should be able to still do this.

Assuming I can get through Hawkspar in the given amount of time. It isn't going too well so far today.
