Green Magic I

Green Magic I is the working title of the pseudonymous on-spec project I'm putting together for unnamed Editor B.

My goal on this is 10,000 words between today and tomorrow, to include the first three chapters, a synopsis, and my ideas on other books in the series.

I've done some backgrounding, and did a huge amount of thinking over the holidays about this project. I'm hoping the writing itself will go quickly.

Can't say too much about the book, but it's got a very cool black-ops government witch as the heroine, and a guy who was a member of a mercenary team that rescued kidnapped Americans from hostile countries as the hero. And the villian is wicked, and based on a real-life example. I think it will be fun.
