

Had to Rebuild the Weblog by Hand

Nearly three hours putting the thing back together. But I wanted this fixed before we started moving things around. The weblog is back to the old template, which I was thoroughly sick of, but, ah well. I was going to change the look of HollyLisle.com once we finished all the moving around anyway. All the entries I had to put in by hand have times of either 6:03 or 7:03 AM because I had no idea what time I actually wrote them, and had no way of finding out. Dates should be correct. Comments (those I have not removed) should be back in place.

But now I can start using this thing again.
