I'm putting together the How To Think Sideways Surprise—the extra course material that everyone gets when they join the new version of How to Think Sideways, ULTRA.

(Legacy students and grads will upgrade automatically and for free—but you can still help build the Surprise.)

I want to make sure the Surprise is spectacular.

To make it great, I need to know this:

What part of writing do you find most difficult?

Anyone—even folks who aren't considering joining the course, can comment here.

I'll let you know what the HTTS Surprise is going to be in a week or two.

(And I'll get back to writing soon. I'm still working from 7AM to midnight every day getting this put together—once it's done, I'm back to Create A World Clinic. And Write A Book With Me will resume. Clearly I'm not a great pace rabbit anymore, though. :/)
