So Matt and I were listening to the radio, and heard the news byte about how Viagra apparently causes blindness in some men.

I said, "Damn. That's harsh. Well, that's it for Viagra, then," and laughed and shook my head.

Matt was quiet for a long time. Then he said, "Not necessarily." He made the "weighing things" gesture with his hands and said, "The guy is going to consider it, and he's going to think, "Well, I already know what she looks like ..."

To which I laughed my ass off.

Comments, guys?
