Moving

HowToThinkSideways.com

If you have ever purchased a class or a book from me using the old HollyShop or any of my sites, please put yourself on the list below. We'll be moving HowToThinkSideways.com to a new URL, and I need to let my readers, as well as past and present students know the following:

- How to get to the new site
- How to get to your purchases once you're there
- How to use the very nice coupon I'm putting together as a thank you for folks putting up with the multitude of things that have been going wrong with HowToThinkSideways.com over the past...well, quite a while.

We're not moving onto the software Dan is building for me yet. We're just getting out of the earthquake zone and onto stable ground so that he and I can actually get work done without having to put out fires on the existing software.

Thank you so much.
