 Cover art for I SEE YOU.

I love this. I think it pops. And it looks nice and hot for July.

The concept was originally 'words written on a mirror' – yes, my obsession with mirrors and their magic continues in I SEE YOU. It got changed a bit, I suspect because the designers discovered it would be hard to see words written in the steam, and the last thing you want is for someone to struggle to read the title of your book.

Would have been easier, no doubt, if I'd had the words written in blood or something ... but there's no magic in that.
