

If you're here...

If you're here, then you've reached the site's new location, hosted by Downtownhost.com. Jatol, much beloved by me, Zette, and FMer's in general, is going down in flames in a big, ugly way. I was lucky to save the site. As you'll read in the thread linked above, tons of others were a lot less lucky.

It'll take me a couple of days to make sure e-mail is working correctly and to get everything on the shop working right before I reopen doors. And to get CARP fixed so that the weblog will show up on the front page again. But those are small things. We didn't lose a single piece of data or a single sales record in the store, so your future upgrades and other goodies will be safe.

Meanwhile, while I wait for everything to finish propagating, I'm going to get writing done today. I have this SO cool idea on what happens to the girls in the Moonroads' Deeps (they weren't in the Deeps when the chapter opened—the Deeps are much, much worse.
