

My Double-NaNo Plans

I think November is going to be an interesting month for me. I have 50 thousand words left in order to finish I See You. I'm also going to work on the Create A Character Clinic this month, with my objective being to finish it.

ISY is moving along well. It will be my first work every day, because it is the must-finish project – it has to be in my editor's hands December 1st.

I'll work on CCC second, and only if I finish my ISY work in a reasonable time. I'm already going to beat NaNo. It would be fun, though, to see if I could clock in 100,000 words or two finished books this month.

Starting point for the day: 49783

Finishing point: 52033 or better
