

Okay, So ... 5K

By Holly Lisle

I was only a few hundred words from hitting the magic 50,000-words-done mark. So I pushed, and went over.

Now time to go watch the seven-year-old writing his eighth book. (i-Ninja fanfic, essentially, with himself in the heroic bad-guy-bashing, marshmallow-roasting roll of U-Ninja.) And then work on math, which we've been rolling in with music-reading lately. Those half notes and quarter notes are great for getting across the concept of fractions. At least the way Matt teaches them.
