For orders between October 3rd and October 8th

If you ordered a book or books and were charged, but your payment has not yet cleared, please contact me at Customer Service. Please send along your order number, a copy of your receipt (if you got one), and the email address you used for PayPal when ordering the book. From what Margaret has been able to track down, PayPal had a glitch during those days, and as soon as the money clears through them, we are probably going to have to rebuild each missing order by hand. I apologize deeply for this inconvenience, and I'll make sure you get your books.
