

Post-Webinar Wrap-Up: Workshops, Downloads, and More

By Holly Lisle

<httpv://youtu.be/ceWebZST1ic>

We ran over an hour. I knew when I had fourteen pages in small print that I was in trouble, but I tried to get through the whole thing.

I made it to page five, because some questions require deeper answers, and I wanted to make this count.

What I have may help you make up your mind about How To Thinks Sideways.

Meanwhile, I was not watching chat, but my daughter was, and she let me know that a number of folks were wondering if we could do the rest of the questions as separate workshops.

Yes. That's actually a really good idea.

I already have the question split into topics, and I'm doing them as free workshops, and adding the workshop videos to the General Classroom for all students as an unplanned bonus.

Here's the promised download:

DOWNLOAD PDF

The results of the poll, because I forgot to get into this:

POLLS (public)

Why do you want to write for a living?

It's the only job I ever wanted.

49%

I need to make money doing something from home.

13%

My head is full of stories, and I might as well get paid for them.

28%

This seems like an easy way to get rich and famous quickly.

0%

I love to read, but I can't find the books I want to read on the shelves.

8%

I don't. This was just the weirdest thing I could think of to do on a Wednesday.

2%