Site Frustration

written by Holly
November 29, 2004
By Holly Lisle

I look at this site, and I am tired of the pastels. How long have I had this design up, anyway?

I want rich, vivid, saturated colors. Sapphire blue, emerald green, ruby red. Stained glass colors. Jewel tones. Sparkle. Over my holiday, I opened up Dreamweaver and plunked around a little with a new site design, but I didn't get far. I realized that I just don't have the time to put into a massive overhaul right now. That I might be stuck with these colors and this design for another year.

Blech.