I still haven't finished my 2000 on ISY. Hawspar is still in my future.

I'm spending a lot of time obsessively checking on the hurricane. It looks like it will be following its projected path, which means my daughter and her guy and his folks and most of our relatives and some of my friends are in for a rough night. I want the storm to continue to weaken before it makes landfall again. At the moment, focus is tough.
