

So ... Today ...

Type-in. This should be a nearly brainless activity, where I go through copying what I've done by hand to the computer.

It isn't.

I invariably find better ways to say things, clearer images to present, little fine-tuning twiddles that make the story run tighter. Mostly today I'll just be typing, but not entirely. I'll update from time to time. Ideally, of course, I'd love to have the type-in completely finished today. Not likely, but not impossible either.
