Howlingly bad weekend has rolled into a MONDAY.

My nemesis is a plugin that is supposed to integrate Xenforo with WordPress.

I am making an error somewhere. I cannot find the error I'm making. I have a help request in with the plugin creator, I have my database guys looped in because they're the ones who need the data the plugin is supposed to give us, and I am going to walk away for a couple hours and write fiction.

Starting in on Ohio Five, because fuck this noise.

I need a sanity break, to not look at software for a couple hours.

For the next couple of hours, I just do something I actually know how to do.
