PHP being a lot easier to configure than CGI, the community was the easiest part of this whole circus to get running again. You can reach the community at <http://fmwriters.com/community/dc/dcboard.php> – everything is running correctly, all data is there. Hoo-rah.

Faldran is working on chat, I'm working on the Other Stuff (support software, Broegga, bios, etc.) With luck the whole shebang will be back to normal by this evening.

My personal site will then undergo some big changes. Until the community is running smoothly again, that will wait.
