

Think Sideways Students Win Big

By Holly Lisle

I missed passing on several of my How To Think Sideways students' really cool recent writing news because things have been a bit hectic lately.

But I wanted to give them public cheers.

Cat Gerlach won the Lucky Agent Contest with her first HTTS class project, the novel Thicker Than Water.

Ieva (student ID) placed a short-story class project—and this is her first story published in English (her native language is Latvian).

Huge congratulations to all three students!
