Woke up at five, anyway, though I lazed around in bed until five-forty, and still was up before the alarm went off. Nice way to start the morning. I've been hitting it hard already, making some good progress on the story. Having ended on such a dark and scary note with the last chapter, it's now time to lighten things up while heading for the next cliffhanger.

I got a lot of site work done yesterday on my day off – I'm putting together the site Help system. It's a bit unnerving how big it's going to be when it's done. But the site is big and complicated and I think a good help system will let people get more out of the whole thing more quickly.

I'm loading pages as their done, so if you want to have a look at the thing in progress, the URL is <https://www.hollylisle.com/help>. Post any suggestions to the To-Do List in the community.
